

Tulare Notes.

[Special Correspondence of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

TULARE, June 9.—Thinking a few items from Tulare might be of interest to your readers, I concluded to venture a little out of my accustomed way, and try the new role of correspondent.

Tulare horsemen have not allowed themselves to become disheartened by the financial stringency nor even the dry year, but are actively engaged in developing their young horses and conditioning their older ones that already have the necessary speed. At the track here may be seen Bay Wilkes, 2:16½, taking his work. He is sound and strong and Mr. Anderson, his owner, believes that he will substitute a 2 for the 6½ in his record before the winter rains come.

Ed. Jamson has in his charge Polly, 2:30, a pacing mare by Oakland Boy, that recently showed a quarter in thirty-one seconds and showed her heels to the gang at Sonora recently in a race. This painstaking trainer also has Musquito, 2:26, Mr. Manske's pacer. It will be a great surprise to those who know him best, if his horse does not prove himself a source of revenue to his owner.

Then Joe Depoister, that careful trustworthy trainer, has Judge Cross, a speedy son of Judge Kyle, and a number of other horses that give promise of being able to pull down their share of the stakes.

The indubitable Johnnie Donahue is here moving his horses around the kite-track in a way to indicate that he has more Addie E.'s 2:19 surprises in store for the boys who are inclined to speculate on the result of the races.

He is handling some Strathway colts that show a "twenty" gait so easily that spectators wonder what kind of a clip they would strike if they were called upon to extend themselves.

The veteran trainer, Stanley Eddy, has his George J. colts, Nellie J. 2:30, and Robby J. quartered at the track. Mr. Eddy has the reputation of never wasting time on anything that is not first-class material, and these youngsters when performing on the track fully sustain that reputation for him.

Besides those mentioned there is a miscellaneous lot of horses being worked upon the track, and each one is, to his owner, a prospective bonanza of wealth.

Recorder (3), the property of the writer, can step off his quarters in 36 seconds so easily that rosy anticipations for the future are excited, but at present some sort of epizootic has made it necessary to suspend his training for a time.

Horsemen of this valley recently learned with regret that it had become necessary to castrate that great sire Clay Duke 2757. He received an injury last season, rendering him useless in the stud as well as upon the track. The operation, a very difficult one, was skillfully performed by Fernando Batchelder, of this city. Clay Duke, 2:29, was one of the greatest show horses in California. He is standard by every rule. He has two trotters in the list, Del Rey, 2:24½, and Lillian Smith, 2:29.

He trotted a mile in a race in 2:20½, timed separately, and for his opportunities is a great sire. But five of his colts have ever been handled for speed and all of them developed speed rapidly. It is greatly to be regretted that this horse has been lost to the breeding interest, of the country. He possesses qualities that could have been perpetuated with great benefit to the country in the future. I visited the home of Clay Duke and Del Rey last Sunday and found that while Mr. Martin has no horses in training this season he is still extensively engaged in the business of breeding trotting stock. His 320 acres of rich land, well improved and divided in alfalfa fields and under a thorough system of irrigation, affords unsurpassed facilities for breeding fine horses.

Del Rey's ailing tendon was blistered and fired last winter with such good effect that it now appears perfectly sound. He will not be trained this season but will have long, careful preparation for next year. If he is brought to a race in good condition he will get a very low mark and be a formidable competitor for first place.

Lillian Smith, 2:29, is fat and strong, and looks like she could cut nine or ten seconds from her record if she were conditioned and sent on that mission.

There are colts and fillies from Clay Duke and Del Rey too numerous to speak of separately. Some from dams by Alex. Button and Bay Rose, and many from thoroughbred dams. All were noteworthy on account of their clean, fine limbs and racy conformation, and give promise of becoming, if not racehorses of merit, stylish roadsters of great endurance and never-failing legs. Mr. Martin has neglected, to some extent, his racing interests in devoting a large share of his time to perfecting a great system of irrigation for the Tule river country.

About five miles further up Tule river is the farm of Capt. Jacob Hayes, the owner of the great stallion Strathway, 2:19. The Captain can look over the country and with complacency count a score or more of Strathway's colts that are moving such a clip as to stamp their sire as one of the great producing sires of California. Last summer when Annie Rooney was taken up broken and jogged around by the hired man a few weeks, and by him driven a half in 1:09, it was considered phenomenal, but it transpired afterward that every man that had a Strathway pacer had an Annie Rooney. The Captain has a full sister to Annie that is moving quite as well as she did with the same handling. Captain Hayes is one of those broad-gauge, liberal-minded horsemen who cherishes no feeling of envy or jealousy in the matter of horse-breeding, consequently all horsemen rejoice with him in his success.

Over the river from Capt. Hayes' farm is Mr. Boucher's of whom I know little, except that he owns that full brother to the great campaigning mare Mabel H., 2:17½, Gen. Logan, 2:23½.

Out near Visalia are the farms of Colonel Perkins and K. O. Newman. The only evidence we have of what they are doing is the fact that the names of their horses appear upon the entry lists of the grand circuit meetings in company with the best in the great racehorse producing State of California. I must not close without mentioning our esteemed fellow townsman, S. A. Blythe. He is one of our most enthusiastic horsemen, and will not drive anything but the best that can be had. He is the proud owner of Grey Pointer, 2:24½, and it is not hazing veracity to say that the horse that wins the 2:25 class pacing races will know that he had a horse race from start to finish with Grey Pointer.

With the proud boast that Tulare has the fastest track in the State, I will close. By the way, there will be a race meeting here from the 22d to the 27th of October, the week following Fresno. Entries close July 1, 1894.
